the line goes "when we were kids we wanted to grow up but now we just want to be kids again" but there is no contradiction or irony here. when i was little i wanted to escape the material conditions i was in, but now that im an adult i still need to finish being a kid. questline was on hold.

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social May 9, 2026 at 10:18 AM | Original Link

melanie was 19 during the alleged assault, and i don't say this to excuse her, but to exemplify that i definitely believe she THOUGHT the encounter was consensual, and she had the opportunity to actually learn and grow from the incident and chose cheerful violence instead got a comment from a rare melanie martinez hater who buys into the satanic panic stuff but doesn't believe the allegations

@xenomorph6599 • 1 hour ago (edited)

The abdl stuff is gross, and it is that, she went to an abdl website to buy half her wardrobe, the coloring book was 100% predator bait there really is no way to look at that and see anything else dude. Her themes are poorly handled, cringe, and straight up inappropriate like the song Playdate and Training Wheels, with her self proclaimed CHILD character explicitly being tied to sxxual acts. This stuff is just not excusable. But the allegations against her from the "piggyback" girl were obviously fake.

usually people who think she's weird jump on the allegations as a foothold to justify their conservative outrage, and people who want to defend her say the allegations are fake. i and this fellow are outside of the dichotomy but in opposite directions. staggering distance between us i know "check their hard-drive" is a meme but it is also like, a threat

flick enlists the circus bugs because he thinks they're warriors for some reason, upon finding out they're circus bugs he decides he's gonna make do & they come up with a plan, and then when everyone finds out they're circus bugs they're like you LIED TO US and they all forget abt the plan & die ig

i watched cars again with my daddy because it's a movie that highlights our real life age difference, cus gen z is super into it & millenials dismiss it as pixar's first flop. consider doing this with ur own age gap relationships

cars is really good. politically conservative and american like all classic pixar but if those other movies are classics i think this one should be in the list. also cars 3 is the only pixar sequel that's better than the original & that's including the toy stories

u don't have to watch cars 2. gen z is reappraising cars 2 and i cannot get with it. i hate when characters who are just simple minded are turned into toddlers & cause problems for no reason because they're entirely unaware of their surroundings. mater doesn't make a decision until like an hour in 8:15 - 8:31 "I'm not a kid I'm not subject to ageism. Everyone who engages me sexually is accepting all of the accountability that comes with sex with an adult, no matter how convincingly I act like a kid and use my magic powers to make daddy and uncle rub their butts together because I don't know what sex is. And you know what? I think my king partners like it that way."

I literally have no words.

im sorryyyyyyy i was 3 years old and he said he loved me

13:14 - 13:29 "I'm not going to say that Melanie represent the subject perfectly, but Danielle isn't leaving room for authentic depictions of child sex abuse either. Like, how are we going to depict grooming, coercion and the like if we aren't allowed to show the positive feelings that the child might be having?"

Because that would be considered glamorization. There are NO positive feelings of getting groomed or being coerced. It is something that sticks with you. As a victim of grooming and coercion myself, it is not glamorous. It makes me sick to think about what happened to me, and their words are a massive fuck you to victims such as myself.

Yet fetishists make up a lot of her fanbase! This person was caught waiting in the queue for her LA listening event. These are SMALL events, with only around 5,000 tickets sold for each iirc. Imagine how many MORE weirdos there are at her sold out arena shows???

And this is just the one with publicly available internet platforms. I'm sure there are so many more unsafe freaks in her crowds that keep it under wraps better than this. This is actually so scary. Knowing this person was around what I KNOW is also a large quantity of minors. Because that's what her fans are. A mix of minors, and questionable freaks.

i might articulate this more precisely in the future, i think there's many distinctions that aren't being made of stuff beyond a certain threshold of acceptability & it's causing people to think they are attracted to animals when they probably aren't. same with loli & children, like it's different

i am a proponent of criticizing media made for babies from adult perspectives cus adults made it & i like how theres preschool shows now that i can imagine today's kids revisiting as teens and adults and enjoying. like batwheels is gonna be a part of some kid's life for fuckin decades

some kids media says its for kids but its actually for parents and i dont really like that, but some rare kids media is actually for kids & still invites participation from adults & that's really cool

batwheels is a show for toddlers but it has adult characters that act grown up and comic relief characters that just ice on the annoyance like a sauce instead of going full annoying, its definitely not secretly for adults but future adults will love it so much

the way danielle says with no hesitation that if you were a kid wearing a crybaby costume at a melanie martinez show then there was definitely a predator looking at you, the multiple tiers of victim blaming

there are ages between 8 and 18, older minors will have their own conception of what's attractive to them & they're not inviting attention from adults by dressing that way, melanie isn't creating circumstances for child predation by not telling her fans to dress more conservatively, how dare you again its just like, no, you don't get to be a fandom cop and call out sexual predators if you're gonna turn around and say the solution is for adults to control kids MORE. and like, if she's gonna tokenise her own CSA then im gonna say she should know what actually enables it at this point

what if a humanoid robot just did the same thing that we do with our bodies, what if the internet was a place you had to walk around and interact with manually, solutions that simply do not engage with the benefits of technology and just replicate familiar mechanics if you're making a kids movie for latam audiences & you can't just have the kid defect from his family, like if that culturally just isnt an option, u could just have the family actually get better. like a kid fixing his family's issues thru his own bravery can be wish fulfillment too.

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social April 16, 2026 at 10:33 PM | Original Link

ppl making the cultural relativity argument about this movie are missing the point. like if u have a movie where an indian man plays carrom and then murders a bus full of children you cant defend it by saying "carrom is a really popular game in india!!"

elemental is such a wild movie. like the reason u make racism in a kids movie about fantastical concepts is to make it subjective and more universally applicable, but then they just had the water people be white & the fire people be indian so its the worst of both worlds

you get all the mixed metaphors and unintended subtext with none of the subjectivity, u just made a movie where indians are weapons of mass destruction and it is a good idea to segregate them

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social April 16, 2026 at 6:33 AM | Original Link

im deciding on indian because of the aesthetic choices, the tablas and konnakol in the soundtrack + the bit where they terrorize wade with spicy food, but it might be more accurate to say they're just vaguely oriental.

elemental is awful for reasons diametrically opposed to coco, now that i think about it. like in that movie it feels like a girl whose talents are perfectly compatible with her family's business is manipulated into abandoning it & joining the mainland's labor forces.

@patriciataxon.bsky.social April 16, 2026 at 6:05 AM | Original Link

her dad is gonna die soon, she's gonna inherit the shop, she's been lovingly given the ability to take it any direction she wants. she doesn't HAVE to take rude customers anymore, she can sell artisan glass sculptures, why does she need to go to the mines

these characters are both in the wrong movies. miguel deserves a family who can offer a future for him like ember's, ember needs a world that can offer a future for her like miguel's.

one thing i didnt go over is that miguel spends the first half of the movie before the twist forming relationships & having positive experiences with other artists, frida kahlo and the winners of the talent show who help him out, it just makes it all the more cruel when he's just forced back home

i don't even know if the "entire family says point blank they'd rather watch miguel slowly die than be happy" scene is supposed to be terrifying, it is the most upset i have been made by a film that isn't by some arthouse provocateur trying to traumatize the censors

to adequately express the level of horror in that scene you have to tilt the camera, warp the colors, descending shepherd's tone playing so loud you can't hear the dialogue, he's a child and the only people who can save him from certain death are unanimously choosing not to and he can't do anything

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social April 15, 2026 at 8:08 PM | Original Link

a lot of people asked me if I wanted miguel's family to be "punished" more, or flagillate themselves, and no. they don't HAVE to do anything, i just wanted them to lose miguel, but if you're insisting on having him return home & for that to be a happy ending then yes they need to put in some work

idk if i was miguel id become a terrorist & destroy every photo of my extended family so they all get trapped & disappear, but miguel is probably a better person than i am and im ok with him having his happy ending as long as he's allowed a fucking apology

people who do drama content about problematic trans women sometimes say they're aware of the optics, but like, they THINK the risk is that they'll contribute to the idea that trans women are predatory and not that they themselves will spread transmisogyny out of ignorance and convenience

like maybe you will slip up and point to the fact that a trans woman had her post flagged as mature as if it's a smoking gun that evidences her perversion or imply that no one would be calling her a predator if she just stopped doing predatory things, not naming names

miguel witnesses a soul wither and die because he was forgotten, imagine how he feels in that moment, the only family member whose face he doesn't know had his photo torn out of the ofrenda because he abandoned the family for his passion just like miguel did.

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social April 13, 2026 at 8:40 PM | Original Link

being told your mother feels bad because she went through abuse herself & realized she did the same thing to you is nice, being told that the lady you don't know who would rather watch you die than let you do what you want with your life feels sad because of her breakup is deranged and evil.

like my reaction is just like, ok, so don't kill the child then. if u feel bad you can let the child live and not watch him die slowly because of you and then be forgotten because his family definitely wouldn't put his photo up based on how they treat the last guy who abandoned them for music.

this is where i was like ok they're not even trying

Patty saying the "mandatory villain torture scenes" at the end of older Disney films make her uncomfortable is SO telling to me because she's SO CLOSE to coming to a point of self-realization. She missed it by THIS much, so I'll say it:

Patty, the reason those scenes make you uncomfortable is because some part of you sees yourself in those irredeemably old villains and doesn't want them to be punished accordingly because you don't think YOU should be punished for the things you've done. This isn't about fictional characters atoning for their fictional crimes. This is about introspection you're starting to have but refuse to look further than the absolute surface of the puddle that is your guilt

i don't think we should torture and humiliate real life criminals either mind you, but thats a political opinion. in art i dont like when a character is made to be ontologically evil specifically to justify whatever acts are done against them in the final act

the kinds of cartoonishly evil motivations of early disney villains were double edged, right? like they were hate sinks but also fun to watch, it feels weird to punish cruella de vil, its like punishing a cunt tornado why does mei lin get to compromise between her cultural identity & her social life while developing a personality diverging from her mother's wishes but miguel gets fucking tortured into submission for wanting the same thing. is there a political take to draw from this

in coco, there is a background gag where a guy is admitted into the world of the living because his dentist had his photo on his ofrenda, it's the one and only time that the film emphasizes non-familial relationships and it breaks the entire film's fake lesson.

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social April 13, 2026 at 9:02 AM | Original Link

if miguel is allowed to have peers his age, friends, it breaks the movie, so he can't have any. he has to be forced to rely on his family who canonically would rather watch him slowly die than let him have agency. the result is a claustrophobic nightmare, a universe for hurting children magic is art and human connection, she survives by making herself useful but all her relationships are transactional and she burns out & forgets how to do magic, at the end of the movie she is just barely learning to fly again but still can't talk to jiji, if she gets to fly again then the cat talks

they draw the cat differently when he cant talk, he looks more realistic, and hes back to looking more cartoony during the credits. when he meow at her at the end she looks disappointed but then embraces him anyways because progress isnt linear and she has to learn how to receive treats watching my stalkerbase spread harmful misinformation about OCD because i claimed to have it once and they had to discredit it, i didn't even use it as an excuse for anything guys, if you think you have found some way to think or perform that will distinguish your intrusive thoughts and urges from welcome ones, that's literally a compulsion, you're going to kill yourself

Is it just me or is this "advice" terrible as FUCK for ppl with OCD. This post made me see red for days.

encyclopediamorbidica answered:

Feb 11

Saw someone in the notes of an OCD post asking how they could tell if they really had a taboo paraphilia or if it was just intrusive thoughts. I think OP had restricted replies so I couldn't respond directly but I wanted to share what my therapist told me, which is that unfortunately, there is no way to Be Sure, because any possible method you could check would immediately become a new obsession. So you have to just accept that you can't be 100% sure you're not secretly A Monster. Even if you were a Monster, you haven't hurt anyone up til now, so just accept the possibility and live your life anyway. Be selfish and prioritize living fully over the tiny possibility that you might

"yes person with ocd your intrusive thoughts are in fact confirmation that you are secretly evil but this is actually a good thing that you shouldn't care about because doing anything else to confirm to yourself that your actions have more impact than your thoughts is actually Your OCD Getting Worse" holy fucking shit.

This person clearly does not know themselves well enough.
If you know your own thoughts, if you know who you are as a person, what your personality is, if you have self-actualized at all, then you can tell the difference. You can. OCD is debilitating but it's not a fucking demon possession. I felt like it was when i was younger but then i grew the fuck up and learned who i was. And my OCD is not me. My OCD is my fear. That's all.

I really am not a fan of this casual talk about child sexuality and how fetishises can be "casually incorporated" into media geared towards children because that's literally how I as an autistic child developed my weird ass fetishes and EPI is definitely a thing, think of kphoria and the effect he had on children in the early 2010s (i'm sure you're aware of it)

@puppyhelictiangle • 0 seconds ago

i don't care about a child having a private, personal, parasocial sexual experience with a piece of media they have complete control over even if it's weird, i don't think this rises to the threshold of sexual trauma

writing a movie that is simultaneously about the ramayana & also your divorce is an act of sheer ego that only an artist can achieve, doing it in a way that feels like seeing exactly one story told through 4 different mediums is still incredible, her being a TERF hurts the film thematically, though emma stone lecturing ryan gosling for not starting his jazz club RIGHT NOW and losing money on purpose instead of staying with his extremely well paying gig for like 5 additional years is like, about as painful to a musician as watching andrew get RSI in every fucking scene in whiplash

the movie does not consider the possibility of him eventually gaining rapport with the band and earning himself some creative control or using it as a jumping off point to whatever fuckin louie armstrong cover band he envisions for himself, his sin is that he ever at any point played pop music

i dunno. i forgot that the movie lets john legend get a word in, but he's still basically the film's antagonist, right? he drives the main couple apart with his trend chasing greed, and emma stone basically gets the last word. did john legend feel disrespected by this role at all

i don't have much to say about lala land other than soul is another weird bad movie that is way better at portraying jazz and has a stronger much more believable arc about a guy being stuck at a job he doesn't like and getting someone to like jazz. kids movie is better at jazz

La La Land

★½

Rewatched 28 Mar 2020

"Hi, I'm Damien Chazelle, and I fucking hate jazz. People who like jazz are fucking idiots. Thank you"

♥ 56 likes sharing this comment for myself as proof that i am making sense and some ppl are willing to understand me i made a 5 minute video pointing out the false dichotomy of abnormal sexuality, how something can obviously be informed by a sexual gaze without it being pornographic or exploitative, and fucks are stuck saying "come on, this work is clearly informed by a sexual gaze" and yes! that's what i said i said that kody is supposed to be hot & sexy, i conceded the point, why are people not listening to me callout docs have this annoying tendency to narrativize the subject, like it has a 3 act structure and we need to build until the climax, which means they're always frontloaded with huge amounts of shit that doesn't actually matter in comparison to the serious allegations being held for drama

my reaction to almost every callout doc is to read the first few pages, get confused, then conclude that if there's any truth to the allegations then it isn't worth digging through the shit to find it. and that sucks!

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social April 5, 2026 at 11:30 PM | Original Link

i mean, MY callout doc doesnt even have a narrative structure or a thesis beyond showing screenshots of me being correct and a lengthy testimony from an employer who got free work from me & got mad when i didn't pay his advertising budget

whiplash being the whitest movie abt jazz CAN be twisted into a positive, like if you just see fletcher and andrew as two freaks who think its their job to save jazz without understanding it and can only get what they want by hurting each other, la la land is just kinda inexcusably white tho

whiplash is a story abt two weird little guys who deserve each other (derogatory) but ryan gosling in la la land is just kinda exactly the same doofus as andrew just without the counterweight

i need to rewatch la la land before i talk anymore shit about it because i dont remember anything that happens in it other than just fucking hating ryan gosling's character

You're actually fucking disgusting how can you say all of that shit and not be disgusted with yourself I'm not just talking about you acting like those character designs aren't made with someone's fetish in the forefront (which they are) but everything you said in this video what the fuck was that incest shit with bandit at the end, what the fuck was that pedophilic age play shit. You're fucking vile and I hope predators like you have their skull crushed into the ground

melanie martinez blamed her fans for being mad about the 80 dollar candles & said she's LITERALLY going into debt to make the 100000 identical cgi music videos for portals and then didn't even make all of them & bought a 3.5 million dollar teletubbies mansion on 11 acres of land

she said "i would NEVER compromise my art with a brand deal" and then scraped her fans with overpriced merch instead and didn't even finish the music videos she said she would

it feels like the fanbase is mellowing out because they're realizing that they were being little attack dogs for an artist that is completely out of touch with them & now they're just holding her at arm's length and enjoying the music.

grave of the fireflies is in its own way kind of a conservative movie, like it kills off the character who originally survived to write the semi autobiographical memoir the movie is based on, just so he can be a martyr looking onto the new generation & demonstrating how their parents went thru a lot that final beat is what's keeping me from loving it. like the adult survivor of war who has to reckon with his role in his little sister's death was too emotionally complex, he has to be a ghost, perfect & innocent, implicitly passing judgement onto the living.

there's a beat in maus where after showing the heartbreaking death of his parents' first son, art himself resents the fact that he grew up being compared to a photograph of an eternally innocent soul. grave of the fireflies kinda feels like choosing the photograph over the living child.

melanie martinez is still putting verse lyrics in the choruses pictured: choruses that u hear 3 times each

You say you're a feminist (Ooh)
But I know that you're lying, boy (Ooh)
You support the government
Second amendment in your drawer
You're racist, not nuanced (Ooh)
Might as well just wear white cloth
He said, "Don't you know that I'm a real nice guy?" (Ooh)

We can go there faster than they can Faster than the average person
Los Angeles, turn on your TV
Come on, worship me, I'm perfect
Behind the scenes, liquor and cocaine
Suffering and pain, it's worth it
My allowance bought me everything
Still can't buy my innocence

I'm sweet, but wait 'til the Scorpio slides
In the mix, and gouges both of your eyes
Fuck around that much, and oh, you will find A grudge for life
Call the cops, I'll feed two birds with a scone
Gonna wish that you just left me alone
Keep it on me real tight like Sylvester Stallone Knock, knock, are you home?

I don't trust you if you say Grave of the Fireflies is your favorite Ghibli movie.

Especially since Lily couldn't understand Howl's Moving Castle anti-war message. Don't get me wrong, GotF is a great movie, and it can make you feel the crushing weight of pure sadness that you never want to experience again as you watch two children starve to death because of WWII.

But to say it's your favorite rubs me the wrong way.

transfems having normal media opinions is dangerous, because that makes them seem like they're like you. lily must enjoy this extremely well loved movie for dark and fucked up reasons because otherwise she will start to seem too much like a person with thoughts and emotions.

grave of the fireflies goes up several points when watched as a double feature with my neighbor totoro directly afterwards like it was originally released. they elevate each other, there's a weird amount of parallels between them

With the secrets that he must keep in

Bet those robes they wear make you feel kinda freaky

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social March 27, 2026 at 11:10 PM | Original Link

the scene where fletcher drills the drummers to see who can play the fastest is unintentionally comedic for how completely dissonant it is to the practice of music. like they're all sweating and bleeding like he's drilling them to do reps at the gym.

it's a movie about how pursuing greatness at the cost of your own physical and mental health will kill you and it takes for granted that the cost of physical and mental health is itself an avenue towards greatness even if it kills you in the end. that's the issue.

the film does not know that i am a better player than fletcher is. he's in a jazz club, a new york jazz club, he's playing with other musicians who are just as shite as him and everyone's watching in rapt attention.

3:25-3:34 Why are we still here... just to suffer... tell me you didn't understand The Strange Thing About The Johnsons without telling me you didn't understand that film. It isn't some kind of borderline child P, but a picture that's specifically made to not only shock you, but also remind that those type of situations happen in real life more often that you think, and that they might be even happening next door. It's not sexy, it's not good, it's not NORMAL. Don't even get me started on you sexualizing a show MEANT FOR LITERAL TODDLERS.

i apologize to my fans for making light of the very serious issue of sons serial raping their fathers, in my defense they had it coming

Any tips for breaking a pedialyte addiction?

Our 1 year old came down with the Flu earlier this week and would not drink anything (formula, milk, water, etc). Switched over to pedialyte which worked but now after he's recovered from the flu, he's addictive to pedialyte. He won't take anything else and just screams (worst we've ever heard from him).

I'm assuming we will need to wean him off of it by diluting each bottle until he's just drinking pure water?

Any tips would be great...

I want to thank my fans who took the time to research the timeline, analyze past Instagram photos, and question the story being told, which reveal her false statements. I trusted so many people in my life who took advantage of that trust for their own personal gain. @patriciataxxon.bsky.social March 13, 2026 at 7:43 AM | Original Link

the reason that staves don't ditch the sharps and flats & just show all 12 notes individually is cus you'd take a huge hit to sightreadability and most music just uses 7 notes with the occasional deviance anyways so it's more efficient to just mark those special notes and leave the rest assumed

but that just begs the question, what would notation look like if the heptatonic 2-2-1-2-2-2-1 scale was never invented? what if all anyone knew was 12 tone rows? how could that information be compressed, what assumptions could we make?

i mean, you can do that on purpose, but in that case you're knowingly exposing yourself to risk. AI tools have a nonzero chance of just regurgitating a single training datum back at you and it can't tell you cus it doesn't actually store the data

the music programs are worse than the art ones. popular music is far less vast a pool of data than mass market art is, the tools are even more railroad and unusable, and more likely to commit that opaque plagiarism that only AI is capable of

1. the mind can interpret a breadth of violating non-sexual acts as sexual trauma, so be kind and open to recognizing whatever odd thing might have hurt you

Hey just so y'all know, this person has said some very concerning things online, and has a history of transandrophobia. Patricia Taxxon is the other name they go by online, if you want to look into it more. Other people have done much worse than she, but I see a lot of open vulnerability in this comments section and I feel in light of that y'all deserve to know. I have seen at least a couple people with DID flip put when they found out more in depth about Patricia, and what she has said and done, one who had spoken personally to her about thier alters. They lowkey seemed on the edge of a mental breakdown.

TW

She has also said publicly on bluesky she wants to be a little kid who can rape Bandit Heeler from Bluey, which I think is pretty offputting. I'm not kinkshaming

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social March 11, 2026 at 9:06 AM | Original Link

maybe bandit should try being less rapeable. ever think of that if someone else decides the bounds of the output, you're participating in the art, you're not composing it. it's a picrew. but also, the fact that your knee-jerk reaction is to condemn perceived "shortcuts" is suspicious. focus on the fact that it's a shit shortcut and be less of a conservative imo

the way artists talk about "AI" art always seems to circle back to stolen valor, unearned aesthetic expression. nevermind whether the technology actually provides a means to expression, it's lumped in with autotune and quantizing for merely having the appearance of deskilling and lowering barriers bloons TD6 is the ideal casual game. literally 0 skill required to win but still has a stupidly high skill ceiling if you're willing to get wet, combines determinism and messiness in its design to make it feel like a game of chance when it isn't, rules are just complicated enough to make u think the bloons hierarchy built over like 20 years and 6 games of haphazard additions has all these cul-de-sacs and particularities that allow the game to create chokepoints you have to specialize for like round 63 and 95, even though the "level design" is just which bloons when i am being forced to defend wish. like magnifico is the villain because when you give him your wish you lose the ability to enact it yourself. thats the point of the "you're a star" song, like you are the magic, not some external authoritative source. this movie sucks, dont make me do this in retrospect it is odd to see the bones of what would become the adult animated comedy, complete with a lovable heel main character who acts above everything, but much like Rashomon, this film was already subverting the tropes it ended up popularizing.

the setting of Bing is clearly metaphorical, the adults are just all rendered as stuffed animals so they're less scary, but it is fun to take it literally. like it's a heavenly dreamscape crafted to foster the emotional development of these 6 kids in particular

sometimes the adults have indistinct conversations with each other while the kids aren't there, which implies they have social lives with each other, but also every child gets a single plush guardian that is suited to their personality & guides them with infinite patience many people forget that puppy can send daddy to the cornfield

i often do this

Where these specific types of "puppy girls" go haywire is they use it to manipulate. They can't be predators or abusive in general, they're just sweet innocent little puppies with no thoughts! Patricia Taxxon pretty much spelled it out, since she's open about the fact that she uses the innocent bratty puppy routine to get what she wants.

people often forget, puppy literally gets whatever she wants because she's special & mom said you have to be nice to me the rodfellows movie has some lines that imply the appearances of the characters are fully in their control, HB says something like "we can look like whatever the heck we want!" in response to zander calling finto a reader rabbit wannabe, widenar chooses to be 10

theres an episode where green arrow shows up and his interactions with batman feel like G-rated snippets from an otherwise PG-13 property, like the grownup characters get to act like grownups & its 100% of the reason the show is bearable to watch, its the same thing that makes bluey fun for all ages

When james somerton said "-deny that there is any queerness in that show, coded or otherwise" he meant it like, theres no queerness by aesthetic implication or by textual confirmation, but that takes a bit of time to figure out. would you prefer to wait till we have the storyboards 100% completed then?
we have the majority of it finished and timed out, and dropped the WIP in the folder for you to look through so you aren't like 100% blind to where we're at. We def don't want to rush you or put pressure on you for anything (especially since you're basically doing free work) so let us know what you need from us/ how you'd like the process to work so that it's most convenient/painless for you

Deleted User 09/30/2022 4:18 PM

luminyan 02/10/2023 11:40 AM

Hey!! We'll get the roughs to you later today as we have them, but we've written up a contract that we would like for you to review. Let us know if you find any issues with the contract or want anything changed/added to it :]
Want to protect all of our rights here :>

Her endless campaigning against Luka and Jules has forced me to intervene and make these post. So let's clear some things up. I was the faculty member who oversaw this production. I viewed all the communication with Patricia and she is lying. 3/

It was clear from the beginning that this was an unpaid student project. I don't know why she is choosing to lie about this. After I confronted them with the actual text of the contract, showing that it merely silently omitted payment instead of stating it as free work outright, they said "I'm disengaging, you are a liar" and blocked me. And yeah, I hope they disengage before they get fucking fired

This agreement is between Jules Vostrejs and Luka Brown ("Producers") and Patricia Taxxon ("Talent") for musical work composed for "In Your Orbit (working title)" ("Production"/"Film").

Producers' Obligations:

- Producers will supply the Talent with visual materials related to the Production as requested for Talent to complete their work.
- Producers will supply feedback to the Talent on all WIP of work being supplied within a timely manner (i.e. 48 hours maximum outside of extenuating circumstances that may include but are not limited to familial or personal emergencies).
- Producers will include proper credit to Talent within the credits section of the Film as well as in any press kit materials, trailers, or other promotional media. This will include direction towards Talent's website and/or social media.
- Producers are taking Talent's creative decisions in good faith and allow for creative decisions for work being done to be made at the Talent's discretion.

Talent's Obligations:

- Talent is expected, in good faith, to perform quality work according to Producers' direction and feedback.
- If Talent is unable to perform work as scheduled, Talent agrees to inform the Producers as soon as possible so production work can be rearranged as necessary.
- Any work being done by the Talent for this Production must be completed for review by April 15th, 2023. Revisions and finalizations can be made after the deadline, but a complete work must be delivered by that date.

Use and Ownership:

- Talent is an independent contractor working with the Producers and is not considered the Producers' employee.
- Final musical work can be posted by the Talent for public consumption immediately.
- Talent may use completed work for individual commercial use (i.e. portfolio, backing track for video essays, etc.)
- Producers retain exclusive right to the music for commercial use until the film has completed its lifespan within the festival circuit and/or by August of 2024. Once that date has passed, the music may be distributed for public use as Talent sees fit.
- Any use of work created for this project must be attributed to the Film as its original intended use.

are you *fucking* kidding me

imagine posting that discord screenshot. fucking "how much would you be willing to contribute to submission fees if you would want to?" and acting like i was supposed to know it was actually a very stern demand. he's not even neurotypical.

All of this not even mentioning that Taxxon was the one to say she wanted to work on the film, years before production started. This started as a collaboration between friends. Luka and I structured our agreement to be a partnership, where none of us were making guaranteed profit off of this project, especially since it is a student work, and we are not established artists with an audience. If anything, the person most likely to make any money off of this arrangement was Taxxon. We considered her an equal participant in this short film, and we wanted it to lift us all up. We gave her full artistic control over what vision she had for the soundtrack, and we often tried to cater our animation to best match it. This is why I found it strange when I asked if she was willing to contribute to festival fees, that she was very flippant with me about it. She stood to gain just as much as us from the film festival circuit, and I had already taken on the workload of doing research on and writing cover letters to each festival. Especially given that I pitched the festival circuit to her as a method to help her get her career offline and away from Kiwifarms, she had a lot to gain from all of this. As someone who had considered her a creative partner, her dismissal felt weird.

I guess it really is a hassle when you say "and she disrespects actual victims of incest with her fetishizing" and I respond with "but I am a victim myself." It just throws a wrench in the works.

Britt was banned off tumblr today, here's the receipts of the post accusing me of lying about being assaulted and her gormlessly cosigning it

Anonymous asked:

on the topic of pt talking about her abuse history, it chaps my ass the way she talks about "being a csa victim" and "being accidentally groomed" because she has openly admitted that she WAS NEVER sexually abused as a child. she has talked at length about how she was physically, nonsexually abused, which is obviously fucking horrible and damaging in itself and i truly wish she had not experienced that, but then she conflates that experience with csa because she developed sexual feelings about the parental abuse as a coping mechanism. that is definitionally NOT CSA!! it's so disgustingly self centered and damaging these ppl loooooove ascribing words to experiences that they DO NOT apply too.

also I will be using "chaps my ass" in my vocabulary now, that is hilarious

barkbarkbarkbarkarf 3h

i know her personally and she's confided to me about what happened. while she really struggles with adopting the "csa victim" identity, something not uncommon, i am certain beyond any reasonable doubt that she is a victim of csa and incest inflicted on her by her dad, when she was 3

You supported/ignored her getting sexual cub art of herself from a pedophile and have been obsessively insisting she's done nothing wrong. Your opinion isn't trustworthy in the slightest.

people get so weird when you actually logically think through ethical questions that they think are just common sense. Like "I know child rape is bad because I'm a good normal person, what kind of freak would have to justify that?"

I reasoned myself into child rape being abhorrent and cruel, even with me being someone who was prevented from developing normal disgust responses around incest and CSA growing up and truly didn't get it for a time. get on my level.

the 120-cell isn't a "4D dodecahedron" right? like you can make the case for a tesseract being a 4D cube because it's directly analogous in its construction but i think the 120-cell is only a 4d dodecahedron insofar as a dodecahedron is a 3d pentagon the first final destination has that one shot of the water retracting backwards after killing todd like it's alive, and i heard the director went on to say he regretted that shot and the fans treat it as non-canon, but genuinely how else are we supposed to imagine death gets the job done

final destination is a movie series about an agentic force that kills people but it also doesn't materially exist in any way except for 1 shot that was retconned. stupid ass franchise

my theory for what causes the final destination premonitions is just that death is spending the entire series trying to tie up loose ends & sometimes when it tries killing a bunch of people at once the disturbance in the timeline is noticed by one of the victims

2 and 6 are the films that support this idea the most, like all the victims in 2 are stated to have only been alive because the extra day or so that the victims of flight 180 were alive ended up preventing their deaths too, and in 6 its all people who shouldn't have been born in the first place friends send me funny screencaps of the bustling conversations they're having in their private discord server that's just them & pluralkit and it makes me want to fucking kill myself

Actual piano songs:

- Real Boy
- Don't forget, I can write soft silly music too
- Something Pretty
- White
- Crocus 5
- THTCTHTOTHTCTHCHCHOHCECOCDGODEODGDEDEGDEGEGEREG

Lead by synth that I played like a piano:

- Closeness
- Postmodern Boyfriend
- blinded
- On Below
- Doggy
- Digital Counterpoint

Artistic license required but I could make it work

- sd_bbb (if only so cover artists finally notice the fucking modal interchange)
- Diversion
- Loving Was
- Haircuts for Women
- Ceramics
- Girls
- Kitty
- Conspicuous Easement

would you buy a patricia taxxon songbook? i write most of my music subconsciously to be playable on a piano cus that's what I play, i have an album's worth of songs that i think would work. is the demand there i have an avenue for transcribing my stuff, like i'd get leo on the phone and work with him to transcribe a few choice songs, re-remembering what i played and how to get that across in sheet music. no avenue for printing/distributing it, though.

a friend pointed this out to me first, but indie animation pilots tend to have the opposite problem to most pilots of big TV shows, where instead of there being too much world and lore & not enough character, it's no setting no plot only character beats & banter

i think a show being a vehicle for kooky characters quipping at each other can be fun, i think TADC pilot does the most with that idea, but so many of them seem to have ambitions beyond that yet are nonetheless 100% banter by volume. who is this twink and why is the camera following him

i think its really cool that hereditary gave us a new iconic horror theme, like modern horror scores are all so experimental and atonal, it feels so unexpected for colin stetson to drop this incredible melodic hook for us at the end its already got a tubular bells esque place in the canon. maybe right now i feel like i was spoiled a little bit by hearing it out of context first but i think ill grow to appreciate that the modern horror score is capable of delivering ubiquity on this level

look at this cool AI art i made

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social December 24, 2025 at 10:01 PM | Original Link

if you think AI is taking jobs by making art easier then literally try using it, try directing it into doing what you want for 2 images in a row. any artist who didn't dogmatically revile AI already tried using it and found out it's useless

i am not impressed by new developments that just engineer your prompts in the backend to make the results look prettier, that's a step backwards, actually see, i used technology to assemble multiple disparate elements together and play them simultaneously, using some signals to modulate others in a complex arrangement that I could manipulate from the inside. so much easier than having a program just give me 1 waveform

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social December 24, 2025 at 7:49 AM | Original Link

the biggest con that "AI" companies pulled was convincing everyone on both sides that it is somehow easier to make art when you have a random number generator making 99% of the decisions. a DAW is more of a crutch than suno is.

checked the rhythm doctor steam forums cus i was curious

Possible AI concerns

Ok so I want to start by saying that I don't want to dogpile or start accusations against the devs or any member of 7th Beat. The only way to fault them for this is lack of background checks Anyways, the composer for 2-XN Bitter Times has repeatedly expressed her support of generative AI. She has also used it directly for album art and (allegedly) for music she's uploaded under her name.

There are multiple parts of Bitter Times that sound extremely AI-ish. A lot of the underlying beats blend in a way only really found in AI generated music. Plus the lyrics feel extremely off. PT can write lyrics, the fact that these are so off beat and corny, plus her constant use of AI, makes me seriously wonder if she used AI to write the lyrics.

If anyone knows if AI was or was not used I'd greatly appreciate your takes. I genuinely hope to be proven wrong. It's suck if one of my favorite games of all time has ai slop in it /sincere Edit: Not responding to any more comments because Steam users apparently can't handle a woman having opinions on the internet.

hafiz wrote the lyrics, i think, i don't think they're that bad :/

genuinely i'm gonna need everyone who's ever AI-nvestigatged someone over vibes to try using the technology. theres 2 human vocalists on that track, literally try getting suno to make a five minute pop edm instrumental and then mix two vocal tracks onto it and try to make it sound halfway listenable almost every minigame has an irresponsible amount of assets that turn the charts into fully fledged cartoon scenes that your inputs inhabit, its astounding, but i think if they were already making variants for the mixtapes they couldda made 8 sequel games that change minimal things.

michael haneke has been my favorite film director since i was 16 years old, i could write thousands of words about all his movies, if i ever made one of those 3 hour video essays itd be a big stupid megareview of all his features

a long while back i said i was making a video about Caché, but i genuinely think the film was too deep for me then. its interesting that the funny games remake comes right after, cus Caché is just holistically better as a political meta-film in basically every way even though funny games is a 10

one thing i really need to do my due diligence is haneke's complex race politics. some of his movies are really startlingly anti-white in a way i dont really see talked about, not just Caché. benny's video is close to being straight up race satire

there's no plot, 90% of the episodes are just the numbers doing sums, either drilling down lists like all the pairs that add up to 10 or doing little mental maths exercises, there might sometimes be a little trophy framing device for 1 episode, like a star wars or indiana jones. they have number fun

i have not seen cyberchase since i was small but i remember finding the maths in it really contrived, cus they had all this plot and worldbuilding surrounding it. i felt like i was being swindled. with numberblocks, what you see is what you get.

when I was little i liked miyazaki movies more than anything else for kids and i acted like a little snob about it for as long as I can remember but im an adult now and i think i just liked that they had kid protagonists who got all the benefit of the plot development.

what a good show

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social November 30, 2025 at 7:46 AM | Original Link

one annoying thing with numberblocks is that the show's format for character design really heavily favors composite numbers, i think 31 is the highest prime number to get a proper design and it definitely makes sense for this show to prioritize numbers that show up in the times tables, but i think the kids deserve a cool prime club episode to prepare them for prime factorization. like if ur already teaching them the square and cube numbers up to a hundred.

@patriciataxxon.bsky.social November 30, 2025 at 7:46 AM | Original Link

"throwing a tantrum" "decided to liken it to sexual assault" how the hell are you gonna pretend to be righteous while talking like that about autistic children having melt-downs and being assaulted for it. ableist piece of shit britts-galaxy-brain answered:

Patricia herself described it as "tantruming". I'm using her own words that she used to describe what she was doing.

What she likened to sexual assault was someone restraining her while she was an active danger to others on a cramped public bus. Which I find telling that you intentionally left out.

Your arguments only work when you maliciously leave out context to warp the narrative.

Almost like what a manipulator would do.

Child abuse

Article Talk

From Wikipedia, the free encyclopedia

Child abuse (also called child endangerment or child maltreatment) is physical, sexual, emotional and/or psychological maltreatment or neglect of a child, especially by a parent or a caregiver. Child abuse may include any act or failure to act by a parent or a caregiver that results in actual or potential wrongful harm to a child and can occur in a child's home, or in organizations, schools, or communities the child interacts with.

Different jurisdictions have different requirements for mandatory reporting and have developed different definitions of what constitutes child abuse, and therefore have different criteria to remove children from their families or to prosecute a criminal charge.

History [\[ edit \]](#)

As late as the 19th century, cruelty to children perpetrated by employers and teachers was commonplace and widespread, and corporal punishment was customary in many

IV. Bitterness.

Much of the online left spent all of 2024 single-mindedly focused on Palestine and the complicity of Democratic politicians in sending aid to Israel.

This campaign had the following effects:

Zero Palestinian lives were saved.
Not one fewer bomb or bullet was fired by the IDF.

It may have slightly contributed to the reelection of Trump, guaranteeing that the US will put no diplomatic pressure on Netanyahu for at least four years, and making protests against Israel both much riskier and less effective.

Trump is also, incidentally, a menace to me and basically everyone I care about.
A perfectly enlightened being would feel no bitterness about this, but I do.

it sounds all serious but its actually written backwards from the initial conception of crafting salves for your privileged imperial discomfort and its so fucking cringe its so cringe its the most embarrassing thing a white person can do because u could just say nothing and be fine
